RABBI'S FORUM

Rabbi Anthony Fratello
MAHL, DD

Cantor's Corner

Cantor Carrie Barry
MSM

The Summer Months are quiet for many reasons. School is out. People are traveling. Who wants to be out and about in the heat of the day?

For Jews Summer tends to be quiet as well, as there are no major holidays (save one... keep reading). There are a few fast days, and of course Shabbat, but the biggies are mostly held during the year.

The one notable exception is Tisha B'av. For those who don't know, or likely who once knew but have now forgotten, Tisha B'av is the anniversary of when the First Temple in Jerusalem was destroyed by the Babylonians, and the Second Temple was destroyed by the Romans. Moreover, according to tradition, Tisha B'av was the same date on which the Edict of Expulsion of the Jews of Spain went into effect. It is, in short, a day of ill omen for our people. Customarily, people spend the day fasting and in prayer. The Book of Lamentations is read, and it is otherwise viewed as somber.

Most Reform Jews know of Tisha B'av only thru their experience at Jewish Summer Camp—Camp make a big deal of Tisha B'av as its the only holiday that falls when camp is in session. For us, however, the day has lost much of its valence, as historically Reform Judaism put very little stock in stories about the Temples in Jerusalem, and we do not in our prayers or theology yearn for them to be rebuilt and restart the Sacrificial Cult.

We lose an important part of our history, however, when we fail to pay attention to this day if ill omen. Yes, it is true, there are more than enough dates on our Calendar upon which we remember various calamities that have befallen our people. But sometimes it is only in remembering calamity that we fully appreciate the blessings that we enjoy.

This year Tisha B'av will fall on July 23. Mark your calendars now. Whatever else you might be doing that day take a moment out to pause and give thanks for the blessings of Freedom and Opportunity that we enjoy. Let us remember that not all of our people have had that good fortune, and that many still lack such opportunities today. Let us resolve not only to give thanks for them, but to continue to fight for our rights to enjoy our freedoms in peace.

As summer approaches, life at Temple slows down just a bit. The schedules are lighter, the pace is gentler, and there is more room to be present. The slower pace also creates space for connection. During these months, I always enjoy the chance to sit with congregants over lunch or coffee, to catch up beyond the rush of the school year and the temple calendar. I'm especially looking forward to working with and getting to know our new Education Director, Alissa Frankel, as we plan together for the coming school year. This June, that slower season feels even more meaningful in our home, as we experience life without Blake, who is college-bound in just a couple of weeks for summer session.

Around the same time Blake heads off on his new journey, we will read in the Torah, in Parashat Shelach-Lecha, about the spies sent into the land of Israel. They return carrying evidence of its abundance: grapes, pomegranates, and figs, signs of a land flowing with milk and honey. Surprisingly, most of the spies focused instead on fear and uncertainty. Only two chose to see possibility and blessing.

Transitions in life can feel the same way. It is easy to focus on what is changing or what we will miss. Certainly, Ian and I will miss the noise (so much noise!), the chaos, and the comfort of having everyone at home together. But this summer also offers an opportunity to discover the "milk and honey" in this new season: quieter evenings, more one-on-one time with Eli, and the gift of appreciating him not simply as the "younger brother," but for the wonderful person he is becoming in his own right.

Judaism constantly reminds us to notice blessings even in moments of change. My hope for this summer is to slow down enough to do exactly that: to savor time together, embrace what is new, and find the milk and honey in a season that looks different than before.

May you also experience these potentially poignant times with family and friends. Those moments of conversation and community are their own kind of sweetness—they are the milk and honey of our lives.

Education Director

Alissa Frankel, MSW

We are please to introduce Alissa Frankel our new Education Director.

Alissa brings more than 15 years of experience in Jewish education, with a proven track record of building innovative, relationship-centered learning programs for children and families. Her work focuses on creating meaningful Jewish experiences that foster belonging, engagement, and lifelong connection.

Originally from Baltimore, Alissa was an active participant in synagogue life and youth programming, experiences that helped shape her passion for Jewish communal engagement. She holds a bachelor’s degree in social work from Florida Atlantic University and a master’s degree in social work from the University of Illinois Chicago. She began her career working with youth in foster care before transitioning into Jewish education, where she has served as an Education Director for the past 15 years.

Alissa has further strengthened her expertise through participation in the M² Senior Educator Cohort for experiential Jewish educators and the K’ilu Lab for Early Childhood Family Educators.

“At Temple Shaarei Shalom, we are deeply committed to creating joyful and meaningful Jewish learning experiences,” said Rabbi Anthony Fratello. “Alissa’s vision, leadership, and passion for engaging families make her an outstanding addition to our professional team and our broader Jewish community.”

Alissa’s philosophy centers on experiential, hands-on learning and strong relationships between families and the synagogue. She is dedicated to building inclusive environments where Jewish life is vibrant, accessible, and something families genuinely look forward to.

She lives in Greenacres with her husband, Jamie, their daughter, Eliana, and their labradoodle, Oliver.

“Joining Temple Shaarei Shalom is an exciting opportunity,” said Alissa. “I look forward to working with families to create a warm, welcoming, and inspiring educational community.”

Please join us in welcoming Alissa.

From our President

Dr. Melissa Bowers

As we close another meaningful year at Temple Shaarei Shalom, it feels impossible not to reflect on how much energy, growth, and connection have filled our congregation over the past months. From joyful celebrations and thoughtful learning opportunities to the everyday moments that make our temple feel like home, this year has reminded us that community is built not only through major events, but through showing up for one another again and again.

Of course, this season also brings a sense of transition. The pace of the year begins to soften as summer arrives. School schedules change, vacations are planned, and many of us find ourselves looking forward to a little extra sunshine, rest, and time with family and friends. Summer has a way of encouraging us to slow down just enough to appreciate the things we sometimes rush past during the busier parts of the year.

At the same time, even as one year winds down, there is already excitement building for what comes next at Temple Shaarei Shalom. Our congregation continues to grow, evolve, and dream forward. New programs, innovative ideas, and opportunities for connection are already taking shape behind the scenes, and there is so much to look forward to in the months ahead. The future of our temple is not something that simply happens on its own; it is created by the people who walk through our doors, volunteer their time, share their voices, and invest in this community together.

This summer, whether you are traveling, spending quiet time at home, or simply trying to stay cool in the Florida heat, we hope you will continue to find moments of joy, reflection, and connection especially with your TSS family. And wherever the summer takes you, Temple Shaarei Shalom will be here, ready to welcome everyone back for another exciting year together.

Wishing you a safe, happy, and relaxing summer. We cannot wait to see what the future holds for our temple community.

Welcome New Members

By Randye Wilner

Marcia and Stanley Bell moved to Florida from Westchester, New York a little over a year ago to be with family. Both are retired. Stanley was an advertising executive and Marcia was the Deputy Town Clerk for Greenburg. They were active in their Temple in New York for 56 years and Marcia would love to become active in Sisterhood They enjoy canasta and Mah Jongg.

Joel and Wendy Kveskin moved to Florida from Charlotte, North Carolina about a year ago. Joel is a Caricature Artist, and he worked at our end of the year Religious School event in May. Wendy is a retired from the Healthcare Insurance profession. They both have become active in our Temple and look forward to attending more events.

Thank You for Your Support..not too late to participate

We are excited to share that the Sanctuary Enhancement Project at Temple Shaarei Shalom is officially underway—and the transformation has already begun.

Thanks to the generosity of many members of our community, we have taken meaningful first steps toward creating a more beautiful, flexible, and inspiring space for worship and gathering. We extend our sincere gratitude to all who have already donated or pledged their support. Your commitment is making this vision a reality.

Recent progress includes the installation of new LED lighting in both the sanctuary and social hall. These modern systems provide us with full control over lighting, allowing us to create the appropriate ambiance for services, celebrations, and community events. In addition, our moveable walls are currently being repaired and painted, with full painting of the sanctuary and social hall scheduled in the coming weeks. Installation of new lobby tile will soon follow, further enhancing the welcoming feel of our facility.

Renovations are also underway in other areas, including the transformation of the library into a future chapel and upgrades to the bathrooms—important improvements that will serve our congregation for years to come.

Together, we are building not just a renovated space, but a stronger future for our congregation. Here are some pictures to show you the progress.

While we celebrate this progress, there is still an opportunity for all members to participate. Whether through dedication opportunities (see flyer on page 7) or by joining our “613 Campaign” with a gift of $613 symbolizing the mitzvot (commandments). Every contribution helps move us forward.
